

Self-Management

When you begin building out personal projects:

- You do not have a boss
- You do not have set tasks
- You do not have a hierarchy of goals to execute on
- You do not have a marketing, sales, or content department

It's all on you.

This means you will need to create structure for your days that breeds clarity and focus.

There are more parts to this, but I have baked the vision, goals, mission, and value creation processes into your brand (this is a PERSONAL brand by the way).

For now, I want to show you how to structure your days for getting the most done in as little time as possible.

>> The video below is in Notion. I made a simplified version in Kortex if you would like to use that instead.
